

As more cattlemen began to travel through Indian Territory, Montford found new ways to prosper. He ran a trading post along the Chisholm Trail where people could buy supplies. It was known as the Silver City Trading Post.